Crowds park for stickers

By LORI BUSCAGLIA

Staff writers

Campus Police Chief Tom Larson's prediction of a heavy turnout for parking sticker sales came to pass Tuesday.

Of the original 1,800 stickers available, an estimated 1,200 parking stickers, which permit students to park in on-campus lots, were sold Tuesday in the east breezeway of the Union Addition, Larson said.

Students lined up in droves, some as early as about 3 a.m., in order to ensure they could buy parking stickers.

"It's the same every year," Larson said of the hundreds of students waiting for the doors to open at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday.

"There shouldn't be that great of a need," he said. "But we still have some kind of a panic."

Because of a policy approved by the President's Council last year making specific lots accessible to all students, Larson said the long line that formed in the early morning hours may have been unnecessary.

"Usually we sell out on the second day," he noted.

Larson said, however: "There just aren't that many parking spaces available on campus."

Police officers selling the stickers Tuesday received few complaints from students concerning a price increase on stickers, Larson said. The parking stickers now cost $25 for two semesters. Last year, stickers sold for $6.

Administration officials said the extra money generated from the increased cost will go to fund a new parking lot for the future Coleman business annex and maintenance of existing lots.

Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs, said money will be used in "maintaining lots" and to "pave lots that are unpaved."

At about 10 a.m. Tuesday, students at the front of the line said they had been in line for more than three hours.

However, at about 3 p.m., many students found no line existed and could purchase parking stickers in a matter of seconds.

Many students voiced their concerns about the availability of parking spaces because stickers are being sold with no preference to any one lot on campus.

"Last year I bought a sticker and never could find a spot," said junior Lisa Matheis. "Twenty-five dollars is a lot to pay for a spot that might not be there."

Larson agreed with both students, saying students would not be guaranteed a parking space in a certain lot as last year.

"With a trial-and-error period this semester, students will be able to figure out where the prime parking spaces are located," Larson said.

Of the estimated 400 to 500 parking stickers remaining, Larson said: "I'm sure they'll be some students out in front of the police station Wednesday morning."

Parking sticker sales will resume at 8 a.m. Wednesday at the Campus Police Station, he noted.

Eastern students go to hearing against Aztec

by JEFF BRITT
Senior reporter

Four Eastern students have a preliminary hearing in a $1,200 lawsuit against Aztec Investments Wednesday, saying they were guaranteed to get back $120 each from their deposits.

Mike Howard said he and his classmates were sent an invoice stating the money would pay for damage to the apartment. "We left it in perfect shape.

It's ridiculous," he said.

Steve Davis, director of Student Legal Services, will represent the students.

The $1,200 is twice the deposit paid.

The tenants and Davis will meet at 9 a.m. for a hearing at the Coles County courthouse. "All it is is an appearance date," Davis said. "The judge will ask the defendant 'Do you owe the money?' They'll say 'We don't owe any money' and it'll go to court."

Aztec Investments' has 35 lawsuits against Eastern students pending.

Davis apprised the students of their option to launch a countersuit, but only Howard and his roommates have done so. "There's no trial set yet," Davis said.

Aztec Investments, which owns several apartments and leases primarily to students, filed 87 small claims suits in May against students who refused to pay their last month and a half of rent, as they claimed they had paid that amount as a security deposit. Of those 87 suits, 35 are still pending.

The other 52 were dismissed "because Aztec decided they had enough in the security deposit to clear it," Davis said.

The suits were filed over a dispute in which the students claim the contract (See EASTERN, page 9)

Apartment complex creates havoc for local residents

by STEVE SMITH
Associate news editor

Noise and parking created by the recently constructed Royal Heights Apartment Complex are threatening to force permanent South Second Street residents from their homes.

Students began moving into the $1 million complex, 1509 Second St., Aug. 15 and already two of the four permanent residents of the street said they may move from the area.

"The main thing is the noise and loud parties," said Robert J. Smith, 1514 S. Second St., a former Eastern chemistry instructor. "This was a good neighborhood to raise a family, but it gradually changed over the year and by the time we realized it, our property value had dwindled.

"We can't sell it for near what it's worth," Smith noted.

Charles Arzeni, 1513 S. Second St., said noise levels around the apartments from loud music and traffic have been unbearable Sunday and Monday nights. "It's a real big negative for the university to let this (the apartment complex) exist without supervision."

Arzeni likened the complex to an "unsupervised dormitory."

"We have lived here for 33 years," said Smith's wife Reva. "Our family grew up here. It's hard to pull up and leave everything that you have worked for."

Arzeni, an Eastern botany instructor, said he had recently finished remodeling his home and is now considering moving from the property although he has only lived in the house for one year. "The owners (of the complex) never made any effort to assure us of peace and quiet," Arzeni said.

Rick Schmitt, one of three men in the Royal Height Apartment Partnership, said he has received no complaints from the neighbors regarding noise levels. Gary Kling and Mike Henneman are the other two members who, along with Schmitt, own the property.

Despite the noise, the neighbors seem to like the appearance of the apartment complex.

"It's an improvement over the fraternity (Phi Sigma Kappa) house and the other house," Smith said of the two (See APARTMENT, page 9)

Cigarette warnings sufficient

BOSTON—A federal appeals court ruled Tuesday that warnings of the hazards of smoking on cigarette packs are sufficient to protect tobacco companies from lawsuits stemming from smokers' sickness or death.

The suit against Liggett and Meyers and Liggett Group Inc. was brought by the heirs of Joseph C. Palme of Newton, who died in 1980 at the age of 49. He smoked up to four packs of L&M cigarettes daily for 23 years, according to the suit.

The Liggett and Meyers appeal stemmed from a federal judge's ruling in April 1986 that health warnings on cigarette packages do not protect tobacco companies from lawsuits.

In a long-awaited ruling, the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said that in requiring the warnings, Congress intended to fulfill an educational purpose but also intended to continue the free flow of trade without harm to the national economy.

The court also said that many precedents set by other cases where people were harmed by dangerous products did not necessarily apply because "cigarette smoking, at least initially, is a voluntary activity."

The Palmer suit blamed his death on smoking and claimed the defendants were negligent in failing to provide adequate warnings about the risks of smoking.

U.S. presents new arms proposal, modifies earlier Soviet agreement

GENEVA (AP)—The United States presented new proposals on Tuesday that it said would simplify verification procedures under a U.S.-Soviet agreement to do away with all intermediate-range nuclear missiles.

Members of the American delegation submitted the proposals in a meeting of the negotiating teams dealing with Intermediate Nuclear Forces—medium-and shorter-range weapons with ranges from 300 to 3,000 miles.

U.S. Spokesman Terry Shroeder said that Soviet acceptance in July of eliminating all intermediate weapons, called the double-zero option, had enabled the United States to change its verification requirements.

Before the Soviet announcement, the plan had been for each superpower to keep 100 medium-range weapons on its own territory.

"Today we are laying out how this simplification could be achieved," Shroeder said, adding that the U.S. proposals, "although simplified, will still be the most stringent ever proposed in any U.S.-Soviet negotiations and will include on-site inspection."

In Washington, State Department Spokesperson Phyllis Oakley has asked whether the new U.S. position drops some intrusive measures, including inspection of factories and intelligence monitoring sites.

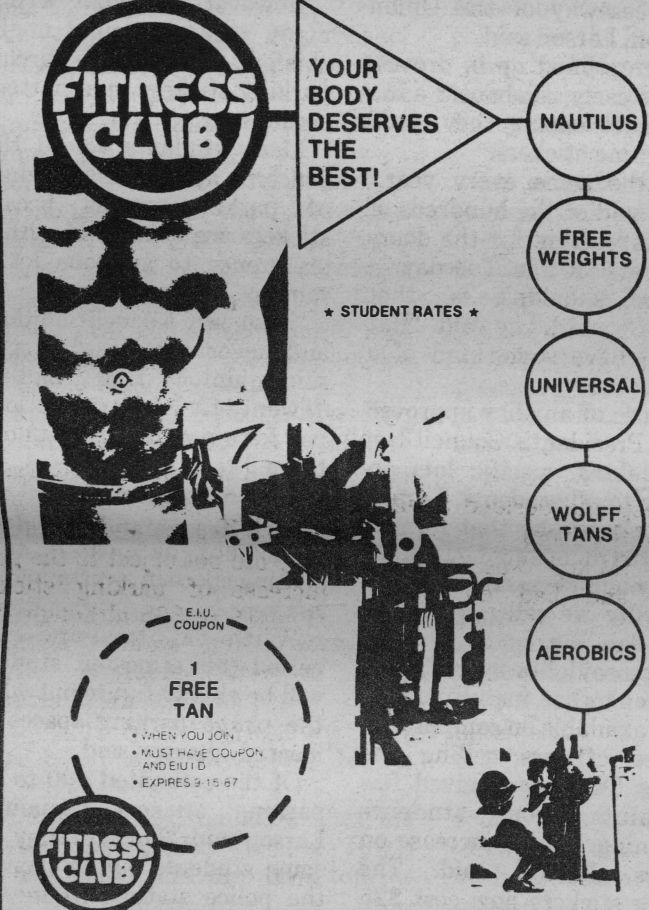

She replied: "There are two major changes in this. One is we have changed our 'suspect site' inspection proposal because the opportunity illegal missile activities significantly reduced when entire class of missiles and infrastructure has been eliminated.

"Also, we have dropped requirement for perimeter portal monitoring. This was done because the perimeter portal monitoring system designed to monitor the flow of missiles from production to final assembly facilities.

"With the production and the elimination of all (Intermediate Nuclear Forces) missiles within three years would be unnecessary."

Shroeder would not give details of the proposals, citing the confidentiality rule the sides have adopted in the talks.

Tom Kelly, a union electrician, pickets outside Tuesday afternoon at 667 Lincoln Ave. of the construction sight of Domino's Pizza

New Domino's site picketed

The new Domino's site is being built without employing local workers, a local union official said Tuesday.

Tom Kelly, assistant business agent for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Union Local 136, picketed the new location for Domino's Pizza, 667 Lincoln Ave., claiming that local workers are not being used.

He added that the current employees are not being given union pay and benefits.

Kelly said the building contractor was subcontracting to Jim Shoot Electric, who was not paying wages and benefits to local electricians that was accepted by IBEW Local 146.

He also said that the workers were not coming from the Charleston area but from Peoria. He added that there were plenty of unemployed electricians in the area to do the work.

A carpenter working on the sight, who declined to give his name, said that the picketing "didn't mean much to him."

Eric Lockhart, supervisor for the Charleston Domino's said a local contractor, Albert Anderson, was hired to renovate the new location.

"It is totally a local operation," Lockhart said. "We are happy with the work he is doing," he said.

Albert Anderson and Jim Shoot were unavailable for comment Tuesday.

Domino's is moving from 611 Seventh to the new location so it can expand its facilities and give quicker service to Eastern students. The new location was formerly occupied by the Italian Bakery.

Back to school rush of students causes cable installation delays

By RUSSELL STARE

Staff writer

Many students have been finding that some of the comforts of home are hard to come by after moving in because of a long waiting period to have cable television installed.

With 10,000 people converging on a town in one weekend, delays in some areas often occur, said Dan VanZandbergen, manager of Liberty Telecommunications at 726 Fourth St. He said he is pleased with how the installations are progressing this year.

VanZandbergen said installation traditionally required up to 10 weeks of waiting before cable could be installed during the period that students are returning to school. He said he is pleased this year that the wait is being controlled to two weeks.

At present, five contracted teams of installers are working on cable installation. Van-Zandbergen said he has put in an order for four more teams to help speed hook-up, but is unsure whether he will get them.

The installers are each averaging 12 hook-ups a day, he said. In apartment complexes, the procedure takes less time because apartments are hooked up at a central box.

Many new subscribers living in houses must have cable run into the houses and have an outlet installed, increasing the time it takes to hook up a system.

Specialized cable installers are required for cable installation because of the delicate electrical procedures involved, VanZandbergen said, adding that every application is different and the procedure does not just require connecting a few wires to the television.

After a customer has been hooked into the cable, readings must be taken at the television set to ensure proper system performance. An appointment must be made when someone will be in the residence during cable installation.

During this year's student rush, Liberty Telecommunications has set up a table in the Regency Apartments' office to take some of the strain off of the main office and allow more orders to be taken more efficiently.

VanZandbergen said Assistant Housing Director Patrick Bradley has been helpful in coordinating installations.

This summer, 2,400 cable converters were upgraded and replaced in residence halls.

VanZandbergen, who has only been manager of Liberty Telecommunications for four weeks, said that this is his first large-scale rush of customers.

VanZandbergen, formerly a technician in Rock Island for eight years, said he has been impressed with the student cooperation.

Early birds grab stickers after wait

By ERIC WEDEKING

Campus editor

Just outside the east doors of the Union Addition, hundreds of students braved chilly temperatures Tuesday morning, waiting in a long line to obtain parking stickers.

Several students took to heart the old saying, 'The early bird gets the worm,' and started a vigil at about 3 a.m. Tuesday morning, insuring they would be the first to get parking stickers for their automobiles when the doors opened at 7:30 a.m.

Don Bullen, a junior production management major, and Liane Kramer, a senior Spanish education major, started their own mini-campground in front of the east doors of the Union Addition at about 3 a.m. Tuesday morning.

However, Bullen and Kramer said they were not the first in line.

"I was out there at 3 a.m. this morning," Bullen said. "But this one guy named Mike came out there from the bars at two this morning."

Kramer, who arrived to join "Mike" and Bullen a little later at 3:30 a.m., said she and Bullen had planned to get at the head of the line in advance.

However, they said "Mike", not prepared for chilly temperatures, indicated he could not sleep and decided to sit it front of the doors.

"He (Mike) was wearing shorts and had no shoes," Kramer said. "He had to have been cold."

"I brought a blanket, a pillow, and pop tarts to eat. But it still got cold out there," she added.

Bullen said he came somewhat ready for the four-hour wait, bringing along "pillows, blankets, a radio with headphones, and books," but "it was still freezing out there."

Bullen said he camped out in front of the Union Addition because he did not want to have to wait in lines during the day.

However, Bullen said he had not slept at all before he started his wait in front of the Union Addition and was very tired Tuesday morning.

"It was an experience. It is something I would only do once a year," Bullen said. "It (the four and one half hour wait) was worth it though."

Kramer said she was glad she joined Bullen in the parking sticker vigil Tuesday morning.

"It was worth it," she said. "The line (that started forming at about 4:30 a.m.) was clear up to Blair Hall at 7:30 a.m."

Kramer said some parking sticker patrons tried to turn the situation into a money-making venture.

"There were some guys who bought doughnuts," Kramer said. "They were trying to sell them and make a little money, I guess."

Kramer's motivation to get a head start on others was for a different reason than Bullen's.

"I'm a senior now, and I've never had a parking sticker," she said. "I finally got one."

"The wait was worth it," Kramer said. "But after I got my parking sticker (at 7:30 a.m.), I went home and crashed out."

Both Kramer and Bullen said they did not object to the price increase of parking stickers from $6 to $25 although they questioned what the money would be used for.

"It's a pretty steep increase," Kramer said. "I paid anyway—I've got to park my car somewhere."

Bullen agreed saying, "I can't believe a 300 percent increase (in the parking sticker price). I don't understand it."

Add/drop schedule

Students wishing to add and drop classes can do so beginning Wednesday in the Union Ballroom.

Previously adds took place in the Union Ballroom while drops were submitted in McAfee Gym outside of the registration office.

Drops may now be submitted in the Union Ballroom Thursday and Friday. After Friday, students can fill out a drop card and place it in the drop box located outside of the registration office in the south basement of McAfee Gym until Nov. 6 (last day to withdraw from courses for Eastern).

Students may add classes at the time indicated by the last digit of their social security number.

The schedule for adding classes on Wednesday is as follows:

8	8:30 a.m.
9	9 a.m.
0	9:30 a.m.
1	10 a.m.
2	10:30 a.m.
3	11 a.m.
4	11:30 a.m.
5	12 noon
6	12:30 p.m.
7	1 p.m.

Doors to the Union Ballroom will close at 4 p.m.

Add/drops will continue Thursday and Friday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. Friday is the deadline for adding classes for the fall semester.

Students who have not registered for classes should go between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Wednesday to the registration office located in the south basement of McAfee Gym or from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

Justices need more than just a great resume

The Reagan Administration's nomination of Robert Bork to the U.S. Supreme Court is fueling controversy—and with good reason.

No one can argue Bork's qualifications, which are above reproach. But one can question his ability to judge on more than just the meaning of the Constitution.

Editorial Bork's background as a legal scholar makes his appointment to the Supreme Court position an impeccable one. He was a law professor at the prestigious University of Chicago and is a federal appellate court judge.

However, his actions while working in the Justice Department as U.S. Solicitor during the Nixon Administration call into question Bork's sense of ethics.

During the "Saturday Night Massacre" President Nixon ordered Bork to fire Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox, who was about to make public the president's role in the Watergate scandal. In doing so, Bork contributed to the coverup of Watergate, when his superiors opted to leave government rather than participate in such a debacle.

If a person is willing to do something ethically wrong while serving in a midlevel government position, what might he do on the nation's high court?

His record as an Appellate Court judge demonstrates his tendency to vote on the basis of original intent of the law instead of interpreting the law in order to set judicial precedent.

Interpretation of the Constitution needs to be flexible. A justice should review each case on its constitutionality and relate it to present day circumstances.

Bork's resume may be outstanding and his intelligence astounding, but morals and wisdom are the real requirements for a good judge and Bork hasn't demonstrated them.

Letter policy

The Daily Eastern News welcomes letters to the editor from any reader addressing issues relating to the campus community.

The name and telephone number of at least one author must be submitted with each letter to the editor. Letters must be 250 words or less.

Only the first three names from letters containing more than three authors will be published unless further specified.

Letters submitted without a name (or a pseudonym) will not be published.

The writer's guide to hassling

Hello and welcome to your newspaper.

Yes, that's right—your newspaper. Sure we sell advertising for it, write stories for it, print it and deliver it, but it's not our newspaper. No sirree bob.

At Eastern, we have this great system where everybody pays a bunch of money (commonly known as student fees) which is then doled out by a board which receives money itself. Don't ask me to explain, I've yet to figure out this one myself.

Anyway, when I said everybody pays for the newspaper, I meant it. We even get money from the poor slob that work here. We rip our yearly share (a whopping $3.30) right out of their sweaty little hands before they know what hit them.

In exchange for that awesome amount of green, we return about 170 editions of the newspaper over the year. We like to think we give students their 2 cents worth.

But, what we're really interested in is your 2 cents worth. Thus, the reason for this column, which I'd like to call, "Jean's Guide to Effectively Harrassing Members of the Media."

The first step is the simplest one. Call us at 581-2812 until your index fingers develops large, welt-like blisters.

I'm serious. None of us have any friends and when the phone rings we're so darn excited we don't know what to do.

But here's what you do. Tell us what's going on. You may be involved in some event which, for some reason, we don't know about. That event might even be newsworthy.

In the past, complaints have come from people and organizations who thought they or their events warranted coverage. A lot of times, they were not. More often than not, they weren't covered because we didn't know.

As a newspaper, we should know about campus happenings and other bits of interest. But what can we tell you? No excuses, we just don't know everything.

Not only do we not know everything. We make mistakes. Oh, I know you're shaking your head saying to yourself, "Say it isn't so. We don't have mistakes at my student newspaper."

Sorry, but as much as we strive for accuracy, mistakes happen. You know what else? Chances are, if a mistake isn't pointed out to us, we will repeat the error (Heavy gasp.) So, when you spot an error, let us know. We hate making them more than you hate reading them. Trust me.

However, calling us is not the only step to my all-inclusive brief guide to harrassment.

The second step is a little tougher. I like to call it Writing letters if for no other reason than to see your name in print. Hopefully, as seekers of higher education, you will write because after reading something, be it a news story, column or another letter, you will be compelled to pick up a pen.

But, maybe you just want to write a letter because you think super conductors are the greatest thing since sliced juice in a box. And, if you don't tell somebody about it, you're just going to crawl into a hole and not come out until the season opening of Moonlighting or until someone discovers a way to keep worms from laying all over the sidewalk after a heavy rainfall, whichever comes first.

Don't just sit there moaning to your roommate, because she thinks a super conductor is the guy who earned employee of the month at Amtrak. Write a letter to the editor. Tell the campus. Become a local hero admired and worshipped by all of your peers.

Well, that's the guide. Any questions? Just call.

—Jean Wright is editor in chief and a regular columnist for The Daily Eastern News.

Flag waving in order to distort the law

Crossview:

The Summer Vidette
Illinois State University

In a recent Newsweek poll, 44 percent of the 620 respondents said they see Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North as a "hero." And a Time magazine poll taken in July, 61 percent said North is a "true patriot."

It seems the American public's search for heroes has reached a ridiculous peak.

North's patriotism is not in question; the decorated Marine is dedicated to his country.

But as unpopular as the Iran-contra hearings may be with the public, the aim of those hearings must be remembered.

The Constitution is the United States' governing document. It defines who shall have what powers, and shall check those powers and who will rule on the lawfulness of government actions.

The hearings, if nothing else, have made it clear the U.S. government was not under control. North claims that everything he did was approved by his superiors.

But at various levels of the Reagan administration, the response has been, "Who, me?"

It is clear that a group of military officers, intelligence personnel and private citizens were running foreign policy and intelligence operations without reporting to Congress. Due to missing documents and President Reagan's doubtful memory, we can't even be sure anyone was reporting to the president.

North's machismo and his willingness to battle Godless Commies to the end cannot replace U.S. law.

No one should be ashamed to wave the American flag.

However, no one should wave the flag in order to obscure the Constitution.

Rain brings Student Day indoors on Tuesday

Although rain caused Student Organization Day to move from the Library Quad to the Union Rathskeller Tuesday, inquiring students failed to make the same change.

The greatest part of the crowd that gathered was the members of the organizations themselves, however, the event went on as planned.

Student Senator Tim Taylor said the committee could not move it to another day because there was no flexibility with the band "Security."

The band's music was supposed to have been a way to get students outside and to bring attention to the various organizations, he said.

Out of the original 53 organizations that signed up for the day, 42 of them were down in the Rathskeller, Taylor said.

Taylor said he didn't have enough time Tuesday morning to call each group, and some of the current campus numbers were not available.

The committee originally relied on word of mouth, flyers and posters to advertise the event because of the lack of proper funding for newspaper advertising, Taylor said.

Along with the band there were hamburgers, potato chips and cans of Coke being sold under the Union walkway. Most of the food was donated by the IGA Foodliner, 700 W. Lincoln Ave., and some was sold to the committee at cost by ARA Dining Service.

Taylor said the money raised from the food would be donated to a local charity to be decided by Student Senate and University Board.

Bears speaker motivates Coleman crowd with pep talk

By JEFF MADSEN
Staff writer

Four years ago, John Cassis gave his first motivational talk to the Chicago Bears.

Ironically, at about the same time, the Bears had their first successful season in nearly two decades.

More than 100 students filled lecture Room 120 in Coleman Hall Thursday night to get a taste of Cassis' style, which emphasized inspirational and mental toughness with a brilliant twist of humor. The event was sponsored by the Residence Hall Association.

"Tonight I want to throw some 'bulleeyes' at you so I can make you really look at things. It's a lot like the parable of the blind discus thrower. He didn't set many records, but he always kept the crowd alert," joked Cassis.

Cassis urged the students to remember the acronym "EAGLE" because it symbolized eyesight (vision), attitude, guts, the ability to laugh, and encouragement.

"If you can't take risks, you can't grow and if you can't grow, you can't become the best person you possibly can," Cassis said.

Many of the people who heard Cassis liked him, like freshman pre-business major Dan Meshenky.

"He's a great story teller. He made us feel good about trying something we normally wouldn't to because we're worried about what others may think. He made us feel good about doing things for ourselves," Meshenky said.

'Strange' comic to visit Subway

By JEFF MADSEN
Staff writer

The Subway will kick off its 1987-88 year by hosting comedian Eddy Strange at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Strange, known nationally for his unique way of narrating short stories, some depicting the everyday rigors of college life, comes to Eastern for the first time as part of a nationwide college tour.

He has entertained on nationally syndicated television programs including the David Brenner Show, the USA network's "Night Flight," ABC's "Keep On Crusin'" and a host of other cable programs.

Strange will also appear as a regular on "Laugh Machine" when it's aired later this year on NBC.

"We saw him for the first time at the National Association of Campus Activities (NACA) in Nashville," said Subway Coordinator Gina Moon.

"After his show, he booked over 75 colleges, and that was just one day. He's really good, and I'm excited about having him in the Subway," Moon said. "If everyone likes him, we'll ask him to come back again."

Last year, Strange won first runner-up in the International Comedy Competition in San Francisco. Eddie Murphy won fifth runner-up in the same competition five years ago.

"Eddy's last name probably summarizes his act," said Joey Edmonds, Strange's booking agent. "He's strange, but he's really funny and incredibly talented."

"He can take a simple story that relates to something we've all experienced and turn it into a hilarious story," said Edmonds.

"He's (Strange) encountered some pretty weird things throughout his life," Edmonds said. "If you see him Thursday night, he'll probably tell you about them."

Marty's changes have small effect

By CHRYSTAL PHILPOTT
City editor

A touch here, a touch there, and owner Dave Kinnaird has given Marty's, 1666 Fourth St., a facelift.

Kinnaird said the changes were more like improvements, which kept the bar's atmosphere basically the same. Marty's hours—10:45 a.m. to 1 a.m.—have also remained the same.

"We've been here since 1973 and we really hadn't changed in that time. And it's good to change things every once in a while," he said.

The main changes to the bar were adding a couple of pool tables, charcoal cooking and bottled beer on ice.

By implementing charcoal cooking, the menu has been reduced to charcoal grilled hamburgers, bratwurst and hotdogs.

The most obvious change at Marty's, however, was turning the bar into a circular bar. The new bar shape has allowed what once was dead space to be turned into seating and standing space.

"Enclosed bars have become popular and the in thing. We've had a lot of people come in and say we look like Cheers.

"It's easier to sit and socialize with a round, enclosed bar. You can sit at a corner and talk to the people across from you and across the bar," Kinnaird said.

Just how much the new bar shape has increased occupancy in the bar, Kinnaird said he won't know until the new measurements and occupancy assessments return.

"We think we've increased our seating because we've used the areas in the dead space. We know we've improved the traffic pattern. There's easier access to the exit, too," he said.

Kinnaird began remodeling the bar May 11, at which time he closed the place. He said he hadn't planned any specific reopening date. Instead, he wanted to work at a relaxed pace over the summer.

As it turned out, though, Kinnaird said he ended up reopening a little sooner than he had expected.

"It's really kind of funny. We really hadn't planned on opening so soon. We were in here working one day around the end of July and had the doors opened and some people just walked in. So we checked with the health department and decided to go ahead and reopen," he said.

Reactions to the new look have been positive so far, he said. "People have really been nice. I've heard some comments—I liked the old place, but I really like the new place."

"We've tried to take the old things and improve on them," he said.

Hardee's facelift continues

By CHRYSTAL PHILPOTT
City editor

For the next few days students may suffer a little inconvenience while eating at Hardee's, 315 Lincoln Ave.

Hardee's began remodeling its interior, and a little of its exterior, about 10 days ago, said Hardee's supervisor Garth Corey.

The reconstruction, scheduled to be finished by the end of next week, will change various parts of the restaurant without altering its basic structure.

Double doors are being installed on both sides, a different lobby area arrangement is being constructed, the bathrooms are being completely renovated, a drop ceiling is being installed and new wallpaper is being hung, said Corey.

About 15 more seats will be available when the renovations have been completed, he said.

On the outside of Hardee's, tile is being added and new framing is being installed on the windows. New landscaping will also be completed once inside renovations are finished.

Corey said the renovations are not unique to the Charleston store. Renovations to the Hardees in Mattoon were finished about six months ago, while renovations in other stores are still going on.

Dale Thull, a carpenter for Bishop Brothers Construction, helps renovate Hardee's on Lincoln Avenue Monday by tacking up some oak trim with an air stapler gun.

"Customers—they've been pretty good about it. They've put up with it all," Corey said.

He said the store chose to stay open during the construction work because food preparation was not hampered by the work.

didn't make it clear they would have to pay rent for an extra month and a half. The leases' terms covered Aug. 23, 1986, to May 10, 1987. However, some of the tenants stopped rent in March because they thought the initial deposit, which equaled the rent paid for a month and a half, would cover the last month and a half of the eight-month lease period. Many students don't file suits because it's inconvenient. "Students are usually not really experienced in the whole process of going through court. They're down here to go to school," Davis said.

"There's a certain hassle in a lawsuit," he said, adding that because a suit develops from a conflict, it is accompanied by debate. Students, unlike many businessmen, aren't used to that. "To me, a lawsuit is an inconvenience to anyone involved," Davis said. The contract, the students claim, didn't make it clear that they would have to pay the extra rent. Under that system, when someone else leases the apartment immediately after the former leasee moves out, the landlord makes money off both leasees. "The landlord would have gotten twice the rent for half of the month of May,"

Davis said. Most apartment complexes charge the additional rent, Davis said. "Most complexes do charge you nine and a half months," he said. "That may be normal from my perspective," adding he is well-versed in such matters, "But it may not be normal from an incoming student's perspective." He said students don't normally ask for his interpretation of a lease. When 87 suits were pending, some were against several students, so more than 100 students were being sued.

Davis never counted up the exact total of students involved. Aztec Property Manager Evelyn Warner said she doesn't know how many apartments Aztec owns or how many students it houses. Davis said the result of the cases lies in convincing the judge. "It's going to depend on proof, but if they (students) can prove to the judge their rental terms were not clearly explained to them, they have a chance," Davis said. However, "If the landlords can convince the judge the students understood the lease, they will win."

buildings that used to stand on the property. "I just think it's a quality building," Schmitt said of the steel and cement structure. "We are really happy with the building." Each unit includes a dishwasher and microwave oven. In addition, apartment tenants will have access to an underground parking garage. Schmitt said the access ramp to the garage may be too steep and require modifications. Nonetheless, parking problems exist. "They park everywhere," Arzini said of the increased number of drivers in the area. "They oftentimes block our driveway. Parking seems to be quite a problem." Jeff Finley, Charleston Zoning Officer, said the apartment complex was inspected last Friday and no coding violations were found.

A city code requires that two parking spaces be provided per apartment he said. The complex meets that requirement. A full-time maintenance person is also on 24-hour call, Schmitt said. Leases were signed for all 24 of the three-bedroom units in "about two months," Schmitt said. Rent for each unit is $625 per month and are under 12 month leases. About 120 students will live in the complex. "This has slowly changed from a family-type neighborhood," Smith said of the influx of students. "Gradually, it's going to be 100 percent students, but we'll stay here as long as things don't get too unpleasant." "Most of the students are really nice and friendly," Reva Smith said, "but on weekends they are different people."

The newest apartments on campus, 1509 S. Second St., are raising neighborhood speculation that noise and parking will force them from their homes. The apartments feature an underground parking garage, a first for Charleston apartments.

N.Iowa selected to take Gateway conference title

Football Notebook/ Barry Bottino

The purple Panthers of Northern Iowa have been chosen by conference coaches and sports information directors to win the 1987 Gateway conference crown.

The purple Panthers return 11 starters on defense and six on offense, including two-year starting quarterback Mike Smith. UNI received 13 first place votes and one third place vote for a total of 96 points.

Southern Illinois was picked as the runner-up with a total of 82 points while Illinois State garnered third place (68 points), and Western Illinois was picked for the fourth place slot (43).

Eastern was chosen for the fifth place position, receiving one third place vote, two fourth place votes, six fifth place votes, four sixth place votes and one last place vote.

Indiana State and Southwest Missouri rounded out the field with 38 and 25 points, respectively.

Home Sweet Home

Eastern's task of defending its 1986 Gateway title will be lessened in one aspect—home field advantage.

All five of the Panthers' home contests will be against conference opponents with the lone conference away game occurring October 31 at the UNI-Dome in Cedar Falls, Iowa versus Northern Iowa.

The friendly confines of O'Brien Stadium boosted the Panthers to a 7-1 record last season during eight home games. Eastern's only home loss last season came at the hands of Eastern Kentucky during the quarterfinal round of the NCAA I-AA playoffs.

Spartan Update

When Eastern opens the season September 5 in San Jose, Calif. against the San Jose State Spartans, they will be facing one of the most high-powered offenses in the nation.

In 1986, Heisman Trophy candidate quarterback Mike Perez led the Spartans to a 10-2 record, a Pacific Coast Athletic Association championship and a 37-7 victory over Miami (Ohio) in the California Bowl.

Maybe it's your calculator.

It's certainly not ours.

We know that a cheap calculator can cost you blood, sweat and time.

Investing in a Hewlett-Packard calculator, on the other hand, can save you time and again.

HP calculators not only have better functions. They function better. Without sticking keys and bad connections.

Through October 31, you can get the cream of the calculators at a non-fat price.

We're cutting $10 off the HP-12C. That buys you more built-in functions than anyone else's financial calculator.

And we're giving away a free Advantage Module, a $49 value, with every HP-41 Advanced Scientific calculator you buy. This 12K-byte plug-in, menu-driven ROM was designed specially for students.

So drop by your campus bookstore and compare HP calculators with the rest. By midterm, you'll see what a deal this is.

FREE $49 HP-41
ADVANTAGE MODULE

with purchase of HP-41. Purchase must be made between August 15, 1987, and October 31, 1987. See your local HP dealer for details and official redemption form. Rebate or free Module will be sent in 6-8 weeks.

defense essential. Lonzell Hill, a rookie from Washington, could break into the lineup as a starting wide receiver, and several rookies are getting shots at winning jobs in the defensive backfield.

Atlanta's Archer was another of the many NFL quarterbacks injured during the 1986 season. He helped the Falcons to a 5-1 start, but the team was 5-5-1 when he suffered a shoulder injury in November, and backup Turk Schonert took over. The Atlanta passing offense ranked 25th in the NFL, and the quarterbacks were sacked 56 times.

The Falcons' strong rushing attack is led by Gerald Riggs, who has gone over 1,000 yards three straight seasons. Second-round draft pick Kenny Flowers from Clemson joins the running back contingent this year.

Defensively, Atlanta ranked in the middle of the NFL pack last year, with a mix of veterans like linebackers Buddy Curry and Joel Williams, and young players, including linemen Rick Bryan and Tony Casillas.

Coach John Robinson of the Rams has a new offensive coordinator, Ernie Zampese, formerly with the San Diego Chargers. Zampese will oversee the annual challenge of giving the team a passing offense to adequately complement NFL rushing champion Eric Dickerson. The Rams' passing offense ranked dead last in the NFL last season.

Jim Everett became the Rams' starting quarterback late in his rookie season and is unchallenged at quarterback entering into his first full NFL season on a team that for a decade has played musical signal-callers.

"He's very competitive. He's very confident," Lampese says of the 6-foot-5 passer from Purdue who threw for 1,018 yards and eight TDs as a rookie.

Everett and the Rams should have the advantage of full-time play from Henry Ellard, the wide receiver who missed the early part of last season because of a contract holdout. Ellard caught 34 passes for 447 yards in nine games last season, after gaining 811 yards on receptions in 1985. He also has a career 12.7-yard average on punt returns, best mark in NFL history.

The Los Angeles offensive line is one of the league's strongest and most experienced. Tackle Jackie Slater and guard Dennis Harrah are heading into their 12th and 13th pro seasons, respectively. The defense, which ranked fourth in the NFC last year, includes longtime performers such as safety Nolan Cromwell, linemen Reggie Doss and Gary Jeter, and linebacker Carl Ekern, all with at least 10 seasons of experience.

Baseball tryouts slated

A meeting will be held for those interested in trying out for Eastern's baseball team Wednesday, coach Tom McDevitt said.

The meeting will be held at 4:30 p.m. in the west bleachers of Lantz Gym.

Interested participants must attend this meeting because no spring tryouts will be held, except for students enrolling for spring semester.

Women's softball

Coach Janet Marquis announced that a mandatory meeting for all women interested in trying out for the softball team will be held Aug. 31 in room 303 of the Lantz Building. Tryout candidates are asked to bring pencils.

Field tryouts will take place Sept. 1-5. For information, call the women's softball office at 581-6007.

IAAF levies new drug tests

ROME (AP)—The IAAF, the governing body of international track and field, has imposed procedures for year-round drug tests for athletes—both in competition and training—to try to prevent the use of illegal substances, its Medical Commission announced Tuesday.

The plan is to conduct random tests everywhere and at all times, "to chase the cheaters right into their training havens and catch them red-handed," IAAF President Arne Ljungqvist of Sweden, who also heads the Medical Commission, said.

He said modern technology had launched a challenge to sporting institutions.

Bear WR Barnes out for season

CHICAGO (AP)—Wide receiver Lew Barnes, who also returns punts for the Chicago Bears, suffered a broken bone in his left leg in practice Tuesday and is out for the season.

"It was a freak accident," said Coach Mike Ditka. "He slipped on the wet turf, and somebody bumped him. His leg went one way and his weight another."

The injury was suffered on the South Park field after the Bears were forced to move from their regular practice field behind Halas Hall because of rain. The regular field has poor drainage.

"These things happen," Ditka said. "We're going to play on wet fields during the season."

Ditka said he would look at defensive back Eric Jeffries or rookie running back Tim Jessie as possible kick returners to replace Barnes.

Barnes returned 57 punts for 482 yards last season. He also returned three kickoffs, including one for 85 yards and a touchdown.

Earlier in the day, the Bears traded guard Stefan Humphries to Denver for punter Bryan Wagner.

Ditka said Humphries, who was often injured, was "a victim of circumstances."

"We felt at this point he was in no man's land," the coach said. "We made the move to give him an opportunity to play." Ditka had complained about the punting of Maury Buford and rookie Kevin Brown.

"That's not the reason we made the trade," Ditka said. "But he has kicked well, and we have to improve our punting. If he's capable, he has a chance to make our team."

The quarterback situation, revolving around Jim McMahon who is recovering from shoulder surgery, remained in the air. Ditka had said he hoped possibly to start McMahon against St. Louis next Monday night.

ELU ground game to carry offensive load this season

By BARRY BOTTINO
Sports editor

With the loss of Eastern's biggest 1-2 combination in history (quarterback Sean Payton and wide receiver Roy Banks), the Panther football program has traded in its "Eastern Airlines" wings for a ticket on the Greyhound express.

"We're going to play to our strengths," said offensive coordinator Kit Cartwright, "which are our offensive line and our running backs."

In that respect, Eastern's bus is full.

The Panthers return their two top rushers from last season in 5-9 inch, 170 pound junior James Marable and 5-9, 175 pound senior DuWayne Pitts, who rushed for 683 yards and 476 yards in '86 respectively.

Up front, Eastern's offensive line is solidified by starting center Sean O'Brien (6-1, 275, junior), tackles Dave Popp (6-6, 250 junior) and Shon McCray (6-2, 255, senior) and guards

Jim Miteff (6-0, 230, senior) and Mark Peterson (6-3, 260, senior).

At quarterback, fifth-year senior Pat Carroll will take the reigns with transfer Kurt Simon and redshirt freshman Eric Arnold expected to see action during the season.

"He is a settling force," Cartwright said of Carroll, who completed only 12 passes last season as Payton's backup.

"Pat has a good concept. He's a coach on the field. In practice, he helps me set the tempo."

In passing situations, Carroll will look to 5-9, 155 pound freshman John Metzger and 6-3, 175 pound Greg Heggs.

"Our main goals will be ball security, high percentage passes and not making mistakes," Cartwright said.

"We're going to play smart and coach smart."

New Orleans 'on verge' of Western division title

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—One of these seasons, the New Orleans Saints might reach the National Football League playoffs and make San Francisco 49ers Coach Bill Walsh look good.

"It seems like I say this every year, but I think New Orleans is on the verge of breaking out and getting into the playoffs. They've been flirting with it every year," Walsh said in a pre-season look at the 49ers' opponents in the National Football Conference's Western Division.

"The Atlanta Falcons have a fine young team, but their quarterback has to become established," Walsh said, referring to 25-year-old David Archer.

Those two teams are trying to break into what has been a California monopoly in the division.

Walsh is heading into his ninth season with the 49ers, who won their fourth NFC West title in the last six seasons by finishing 10-5-1 last year and edging the Los Angeles Rams, 10-6. The Rams have one division title and four runner-up finishes so far in the 1980s.

Atlanta last made the playoffs in 1982, the strike-shortened season, and hasn't had a winning season since. Last year's Falcons went 7-8-1, and an off-season change brought Marion Campbell back for his second tour as head coach.

The Saints, in their first season under Coach Jim Mora, were 6-5 at one point last year, then faded out of the division race and finished 7-9. In 20 NFL seasons, Saints have never posted a winning record or made the playoffs.

"Once the Saints have that first winning season, it's going to help a lot," said Mora, who is making no promises for the coming season. "It's hard to catch up when the teams ahead of you are trying to improve, too."

What the Saints have going for them are a highly regarded defensive line and linebacking unit; Rueben Mayes, who rushed for 1,353 yards as a rookie and their superb placekicker, Morten Anderson.

David Wilson and Bobby Hebert again are competing for the starting quarterback job. Hebert, the former USFL star, was knocked out of the starting lineup by a broken foot last season. The two passers combined for 12 touchdowns and were intercepted 25 times.

Mora considers improvement of the passing offense and pass (See NEW ORLEANS, Page 15)

Frequent flyer miles bring Maton closer to Olympics

Please excuse Jim Maton if he asks you to pinch him just in case he's dreaming.

Why would Maton be dreaming you ask? Good question.

After the Eastern junior took third in the 800-meter run at the NCAA Outdoor track and field championships in June and became a two-time All-American, he wound up in more airplanes, dormitories and strange stadiums than ever.

From the NCAA Outdoors at Louisiana State University, Maton took to the Athletics Congress Mobil/USA Championships in San Jose, Calif. where a seventh place finish in the finals earned him a spot on a U.S. track team which toured Europe.

"Jim had never flown before," said Eastern assistant track coach Tom Akers. "Now he ends up flying to Oklahoma City for the Indoor Nationals (where he became an All-American with his second place finish in the 1,000-meter run), to Baton Rouge (La.) for Outdoor Nationals, to San Jose for the TAC meet, to the Olympic Festival in North Carolina and then overseas with the touring team."

"He's flown more in the past year than I have in the last five or six years,"

Barry Bottino

Akers said.

But Maton isn't trying to build up frequent flyer miles for a trip to Bermuda.

The only trip Maton would like make is with the United States Olympic team to Seoul, Korea in 1988.

"It's a very realistic goal," Akers said. "But I don't think it is one of Jim's ultimate goals. Making the Olympic team would be a midrange goal. The ultimate goal would be to become a finalist in the Olympics."

But to arrive at those goals, Maton will have to defeat one of the top 10 800-meter men in the nation.

Johnny Gray of Santa Monica, Calif. is the current American record holder in the 800 with a 1:42.60 clocking.

Stanley Redwine, who overtook Maton on the final turn to win the Olympic Festival 800-meter gold, is definitely the most susceptible.

Redwine, 26, has shown signs of inconsistency where Maton has churned out steady clockings in the 1:47 neighborhood for the past 18 months.

The third member of the group will compete at the World Track Championships in Rome Aug. 21. Santa Monica's David Mack, who recorded his most impressive time of 1:46.49 at the TAC Mobil/USA meet.

At his current rate of progress, Maton will cut his personal best to the 1:46 range.

And if Maton continues his progression toward Seoul, he just might ask Stanley Redwine to pinch him.
